BBB - Still going strong after 70 years

My daughter began learning cornet at school last year and we quickly decided that the instrument she had been provided with wasn't up to snuff. It was tarnished, dented and cursed with troublesome valves. She would have been better off playing a length of hose capped with a funnel. So we decided to trawl Ebay and found a cornet for sale just a couple of miles up the road in Fairfield.

The seller was a member of Besses Boys Band and was trading up to a new cornet, priced somewhere in the region of a well-loved second hand car. During the sale she asked my daughter if she'd be interested in joining the Besses training band and handed us a card with the contact details of Tom Ridgley, the training band leader.

I was aware of Besses Boys Band, having been impressed by their yearly appearances at Prestwich Clough Day but I'd not considered how anyone actually joined. I just assumed that membership was a matter of regional and familial inheritance, like being chosen as a carnival queen. But we were assured that Besses was welcoming and open to all.

We gave Tom a call and my daughter attended her first band practice in Whitefield a week later. I confess that I expected the training band to sound like a faulty central heating system. All groans, clanks and off-key parps. But what I heard was something quite magical. They weren't perfect but they were a real band and over the weeks it was a pleasure to hear them become better and tighter.

Tom takes obvious pride in his role and his youthful enthusiasm and dedication is infectious, transferring to the band. It's also mirrored by the broader band community. An engine room of supportive parents and dedicated members of the main Besses brass bands, who ferry members and equipment, raise funds and organise competitions and performances.

Most importantly, these people keep the band going. Besses brass band is a long-standing local institution and the Boys band has been in operation since 1943. Beyond the practices, the performances and the joy of the music, everyone involved realises that they are part of a precious rolling history. Preparing the ground for the next generation and the next and the next.

Besses Boys Training Band perform at Eden Gardens Allotment, Whitefield on May 9th.

The Reader by Bernhard Schlink

This year sees the 70th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz and the horrors of the Holocaust came to the world's attention. In the intervening years many great pieces of literature have been written to explore why it happened, and the consequences of it. One such book is The Reader by the German author, Bernhard Schlink. Set in West Germany in 1958, Michael, a 15-year-old falls ill with hepatitis and befriends a 36-year-old woman, Hanna. They develop a close relationship until she suddenly disappears a few months later. The narrative then skips to six years later where Michael, now a law student, is observing a war crimes trial. On trial are a group of female SS guards who served at Auschwitz. Michael has to battle his emotions and the reader is asked, along with the protagonist, to question why such atrocities were allowed to happen and how can we stop them happening again. The issue of how ordinary Germans carried out Nazi orders is one that Germans have struggled to come to terms with and Schlink explores this in a touching manner.

The style of writing is sparse at times – with little explanation offered to the reader at times. It can appear blunt, but offers a clarity that forces the reader to engage with the subject matter. It reflects how the post-war generations in Germany have struggled to come to terms with the actions of ordinary Germans during the war.

Once by Morris Gleitzman

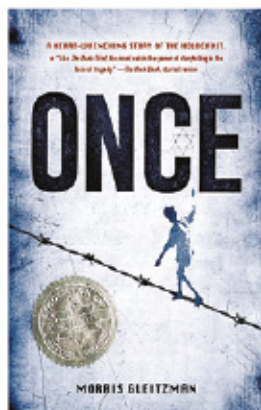

Adult literature is not alone in dealing with the Holocaust, and there are in fact many pieces of children's literature that aim to introduce the events and the effects of them. One such book is Once by Morris Gleitzman. It is the first in a series of four books which tell of the life of Felix, a 10 year old Polish Jew in 1942. For three years, Felix has lived in an orphanage, waiting for his parents return for him. They own a book shop and Felix believes that this is why they had to leave him. He has seen Nazis burning books and figures out that it must be dangerous to be a bookseller. His parents must have sent him to the orphanage to keep him safe. However, he soon learns that it is not being a bookseller that is dangerous.

Gleitzman is very careful to write at an appropriate level for his young audience whilst not sanitising the dreadful events that Felix finds himself caught up in. The young reader will learn, along with Felix, exactly what is taking place across Europe. Yes, it is shocking, yes it is moving, and yes, be prepared for questions from a child who is reading this. It is aimed at readers in their first year or two at secondary school and offers a good age-appropriate introduction to a subject that they will most likely encounter in History or RE lessons.

PARKVIEW MORTGAGES

"Why should I use a broker rather than going straight to my bank?"

This is a statement I hear a lot when I talk to new clients. The role of a mortgage broker is often misunderstood and underestimated, my answer is always we work on your behalf not the mortgage lenders behalf to ensure you get the mortgage you need.

Banks can only offer you mortgage products from their own limited mortgage range, brokers have the experience, connections and technology to assess your financial situation and compare different mortgage products from a comprehensive range of mortgage providers.

Brokers can recommend a mortgage option that's right for all types of clients from first time buyers, home movers, homeowners raising capital to extend a home, or remortgage to get a more competitive interest rate. Your personal circumstances change, and so do your mortgage needs, that's why you should review your mortgage on a regular basis.

Nearly three million homeowners who are currently on their lender's standard variable rate (SVR) could save money each month by remortgaging, a financial publication called "This is Money" reported on the 11/11/14. That's 4 out of every 10 homes.

Interest rates are at historic low rates and lenders are having a price war – are you missing out?

Parkview Mortgages are offering readers of P&W Local a free initial review, we will receive commission from the provider if we can help you with your mortgage needs so what have you got to lose by having a review with us. Please quote P&W Local when you contact us by email – pat@parkviewmortgages.co.uk, via our website www.parkviewmortgages.co.uk or by phone 0161 773 1069, or by post Parkview Mortgages, 30 Park Street, Prestwich, Manchester, M25 1GT.

Your home may be repossessed if you do not keep up repayments on your mortgage.

Parkview Mortgages is an Appointed Representative of Pink Home Loans. Pink Home Loans is a trading name of Advance Mortgage Funding Limited which is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority

LUXURY HOMES - IDEAL FOR FAMILY LIFE

Luxury property developer, Altin Homes is this month bringing their special blend of contemporary design and family living to Chapelfield Village in Radcliffe.

The award-winning developer, best known for building multi-million pound homes in south Manchester, is throwing open the doors to a luxury show home at its new Bankside Place development in late April.

Bankside Place is one of Altin's Bijou Collection developments. As such, Bankside Place will feature a high level, luxury specification with many features, fixtures and fittings "borrowed" from Altin's super homes.

Speaking about the Bijou Collection homes, Altin's managing director, Mohammad Khoy said, "The concept behind these properties is simple.

"Rather than approach the design and build thinking how can we make these properties look good with a minimum amount of specification we are looking to integrate as many features as we can to make the properties extra special for their owners.

"We love design, we love luxury and that's reflected in the homes at Bankside Place. I'm extremely proud of what we have achieved."

The development features only thirteen four and five bedrooms detached and semi-detached homes with a choice of interior layouts and external facades.

Step inside and you will find architect-designed homes created with families in mind and space planned using the same approach taken by this luxury developer to its larger projects.

The elegant homes are laid out over three floors offering a myriad of sleeping options for all the family. All feature that essential ingredient of modern family living – an open plan kitchen/dining/family room offering a place for informal family gatherings or supper with friends. Some of the homes also feature a separate, more formal, living room.

In the majority of the homes, the top floor of the house features a stand-alone suite with bedroom, dressing room and en-suite. This offers the ultimate in flexibility and can be used as a place of sanctuary for parents, ideal accommodation for visiting guests or a super-cool hangout for teenage or grown up children.

The kitchens and bathrooms in all the homes are a delight. The bespoke designed kitchens come with high quality units and worktops and integrated appliances including dishwasher, oven, microwave and fridge/freezer.

Bathrooms and en-suites include baths, showers and vanity units by Duravit and Hansgrohe with designer heated towel warmers and full height large format tiles to the basin walls.

Sales at the development are being handled by local estate agent, Clive Anthony. Commenting on the showhome opening, Anthony Horwich said, "We are delighted to be representing Altin Homes and promoting this fabulous development.

"The properties on offer are really varied so homebuyers will have a fantastic choice. We have had a lot of early interest in Bankside Place and are looking forwards to a successful launch in late April."

Prices for the first properties to be released range from £239,995 to £385,000.

For more information, please contact the sales team at the Clive Anthony Whitefield Branch on 0161 796 1000.

Mini Egg Cup Cakes

Makes: 12 cupcakes

Preparation time: 15 minutes

Cooking time: 15-20 minutes

Cooling time: 15 minutes

Decorating time: 10-15 minutes

Ingredients

For the cakes

115g (4oz) softened butter or margarine

115g (4oz) caster sugar

2 eggs, lightly beaten

85g (3oz) self-raising flour

25g (1oz) cocoa powder (optional - for chocolate cupcakes)

For the topping

85g (3oz) softened butter

175g (5oz) icing sugar

25g (1oz) cocoa powder

1 tablespoon milk

3 drops vanilla extract

2 packets mini eggs

Method

Preheat the oven to 180 C / Gas 4.

Place the butter in a mixing bowl with the sugar. Beat until light and fluffy. Then gradually beat in the eggs, a little at a time.

Sift the flour and cocoa powder (if using) into the mixture. Fold them in with a large spoon until combined. Use a teaspoon to dollop the mixture into silicon cases, or paper cases, lining a patty tin.

Bake in the preheated oven until well risen and firm to touch, 15 to 20 minutes. Keep checking them so they don't burn. Transfer to a wire rack to cool.

To make the buttercream topping, place the butter in a bowl. Sift in the icing sugar and cocoa, and then add the milk and vanilla essence.

Beat until really light and fluffy.

When the cupcakes have cooled, ice the cakes. It looks good if the icing is piped on into a nest shape, but this is optional. Place chocolate eggs in the centre of each nest to decorate.

Up in Prestwich, down a little old lane, there is a shop...

Many people have been asking us about these weird and wonderful substances that align our shelves. Some with unpronounceable names such as phosphatidyl serine and some that just sound outright barmy – Horny Goat Weed.

These things are known as supplements, and they can be:

Vitamins - a substance that is essential for the body to work that either are not made by the body or are made in small amounts so dietary supplementation is needed.

Botanicals- plants that have medical properties if used the correct way but that have also been used as part of a normal diet.

Traditional herbal remedies- these are herbs that are only used as a medicine and have been produced to highest standards in UK and Europe just like prescription medicine. They have claims that tell people what they are traditional used for.

Minerals- these are important mineral that are needed to maintain the health of a normal healthy individual. They include zinc for a healthy immune system selenium for a healthy detoxification system and chromium for healthy sugar control.

Natural product food supplements- these are a class of substances that are purified from normal dietary components and taken in larger than normal quantities to maintain ones health. We all have seen youngsters wanting to bulk up. Well they use whey powder, which is just one part of dried milk powder, in a concentrated form.

One of our best selling products is Q10 for energy which is a concentrated part of the soya bean. From the soya bean we also get lecithin, a natural waxy material used in lowering cholesterol. We also sell pure collagen powder, which allows an individual to consume a high dose of this important nutrient in a drink; this is used to maintain health joints and bones, its also good for the skin.

Phytoalexins - "What never heard of it," I hear you say. Well these again are food borne ingredients found in food we usually avoid, such as the pips of apples, raw onions, bitter herbs, orange peel. That bitterness that so many hate is actually a very potent natural substance that has many positive health benefits. Did you know that peppery watercress contains phenylethyl isothiocyanate PEITC, a potent antioxidant and detoxicant. For those chemists out there notice the "Thiol" part.

Any way if you would like to talk more about the health care products we sell, come in no appointment needed and our staff will be ready to listen.

Dennis Gore aka Dennis The Chemist

Project Pleasure

April is a great month for a garden project; one which can be achieved in a morning or an afternoon, and which improves a few square metres. You'll feel you've achieved something wonderful and if you break the whole garden into a series of small projects it suddenly appears more manageable. Here are three to get you started.

Strawberry Pots

You don't need a huge patch to enjoy growing strawberries. Plant a few in pots as a treat. Buy young, rich green plants which have been certified virus-free. Plant 3-4 in a 12 inch (30cm) day pot. The crowns (where shoots meet roots) should be level with the compost surface. Water them in and stand in the shelter of a house wall. If you have a greenhouse or a cold frame they will establish more quickly and fruit earlier. Pinch off any runners which form.

Grass

Lawns always look bedraggled after the winter. Remove dead grass by raking the surface with a wire toothed rake. Improve drainage on heavy soil by spiking it with a garden fork every 6 inches (15cm) or so, to a depth of about 4 inches (10cm), giving the fork a good wiggle each time. Sweep sharp sand into the holes with a broom. Then mow the lawn with the blades set on high and remove the clippings. Two weeks later apply a combined weed killer and fertilizer. If you're lucky it will rain within 24 hours. If not just water it in. Mow weekly to keep the lawn thick and healthy.

Green Deal

Green Deal explained

The Government Green Deal scheme enables consumers to install energy saving improvements to their homes without paying for the privilege. The cost for the works is paid back from the savings the installation produces via your Energy bill. (Please see the golden rule below).

The Green Deal Golden Rule

The 'Golden Rule' ensures that the savings created by the new energy saving improvement must ALWAYS exceed the repayments applied to the annual electricity bill. This means that once the improvement has been installed, your dual fuel bill will be no higher than before the improvement was carried out.

The energy advisor will explain.

Criteria

The Green Deal option is available to all homeowners, landlords, privately renting tenants, Schools and commercial properties with an electricity supply.

Alternative 0% Finance Available 0%

Green Deal may not suit every customer. We also have an alternative 0% finance option available to suit the needs of you and your home, our energy advisor can explain further at point of survey.

Prestwich Heys FC

www.prestwichheys.com

As the season draws to its climax the excitement is mounting on and off the pitch at Prestwich Heys.

Going into April the club has two Cup Finals to look forward too and top the Manchester League Premier Division table.

Heys have played more games than the sides below them but they have continued to pile up the points with eleven wins in their last 14 games.

Even if it does bring the title to Adie Moran Park the run has put Heys in a great position to clinch the top five spot that would allow them to make the step up to the North West Counties League for next season.

It's not all down to on the pitch activity for that to happen. The club will have to meet the ground grading criteria and a massive amount of work has taken place over the last two months to meet those requirements.

New Dressing rooms have been installed as well as a covered spectator stand to improve the facilities for players and spectators alike.

The final ground grading will take place in early April and if that box is ticked it will then be about getting that top five spot.

Heys have four games remaining to cement that position but they also have two Cup Finals to look forward too.

They will face Manchester League rivals Walshaw at Bury FC on Monday 27th April, kick off 6.30pm in the Kenyon Cup Final.

Jon Lyons team have also made it through to the Atherton Charity Cup Final after beating NW Counties League Ashton Town in the semi-final 2-1. Heys will play either Howe Bridge Mills or AFC Monton in the Final.

The Reserves also have silverware in their sights. Going into their final six matches they require three more wins to win the Reserve League title.

It all adds up to a massive and era defining month for the club who are looking for the local community to really get behind them.

You can keep up to date at www.prestwichheys.com or on twitter @PrestwichHeysFC or @HeysMatchday.

Car DVR's or Dash Cameras are so cheap now, you can find them on eBay for less than a tenner. Plug them in to the car 12v socket, stick it to the windscreen and it record all the time while you're driving. But is it worth having one?

I was given a cheap Chinese dash camera to use a couple of months ago. So I stuck it up on the windscreen of the Jag, wired it in nicely (I hate seeing wires in my car!) and for a while I was all talked about in the office, always taking the memory card out to look at some of my footage I'd caught, although the footage was never as dramatic as I had hoped for.

Are They Easy To Use Though?

When I turn the ignition on, the camera lights up and makes a noise telling me it's on and recording. When I turn the car off the camera turns off, so it is very little effort to use.

I have a 32gb memory card in mine and it records in 10 minutes clips until the card is full, then it starts overwriting the oldest clip. So you really can just forget you have it in the car.

Playing around the settings you can program it to automatically save clips from being overwritten if the camera registers a certain amount of 'G' which great if you happen to be involved in a crash.

Luckily, my camera hasn't caught anything exciting like a crash yet, but it really does offer me peace of mind knowing I will have video evidence if anything happens to me.

My Verdict

Last December I had an incident where I went in to the back of the car in front of me at a mini roundabout. It really wasn't my fault, but as the one who hit the other party the insurance company found me at fault, but the driver just stopped dead for no reason in a car that was worthless, I still believe he wanted to get hit to claim for whiplash (which he did claim for) but if I had a camera in the car back then maybe I wouldn't have lost some no claims bonus over the incident.

I honestly now couldn't drive a car everyday without having a camera installed. It's not just that I'm worried about being in an incident, but I often see other motorists in incidents and to be able to offer the police and insurance companies proper evidence of what happened can only be a good thing can't it?

I love feeling of security that it gives. I'm certain in future that a forward facing camera will come as standard in all new cars.

Pop over to eBay or Amazon and search for car cameras, and buy yours. You will forget that it's even in your car until it records something important, then you'll be pleased you have one.

There are many different types available too. You can get really tiny one that can't really be seen, ones with screens on the back and these let you view footage right away. You can even get ones built in to rear view mirrors.
